

KAI PAYNTER

Kai Paynter is a graduate of the University of California, Irvine, MFA Acting program and also Purdue University. She studied alongside Grace Byers, Kara Song Wang, Sepideh Moafi and at Purdue University, graduates included John Lovitz and Sir Bill Duke.

Kai started her performing career as a singer, travelling internationally, as a featured soloist with Purdue Musical Organization, singing for the likes of Neil Armstrong and others.

Following graduation from the MFA program, under artistic direction from world renowned theatre icon Robert Cohen, Kai relocated to Los Angeles. Kai is currently based in Sydney and is a local in Los Angeles.

Kai was featured in the US Airways Inflight Magazine for her role as Abigail in The Crucible, where the magazine recognized her alma mater as being the #1 “training institution for young creative talent”. She recently appeared on CBS’s Criminal Minds opposite Joe Mantegna.

Kai’s first main stage theatre role was the principal role of Ruby in Seven Guitars. This led to other stage roles including a Neil LaBute debut of The Furies and Sophie in Ruined for director, Kent Thompson. She has been featured on several ad campaigns including Apple, Honda, & Boost Mobile.

Kai is especially adept with accents & dialects, not limited to all regional American dialects, British, African and Islander accents.

As a writer/director, Kai pitches pilots in LA, making rounds in the entertainment circuit. Together with partner, Kirk Hastings, they formed BearTiger Productions and The Americas, A Theatre Company, having won Best Play, Best Director, & Best Actress in Sydney’s S+S Festival.